USA Climbing Awards the 2019 USA Climbing: Collegiate National Championships to Climb Nashville in Murfreesboro, Tennessee

Boulder, Colorado – August 13, 2018

USA Climbing, the United States National Governing Body for the sport of Competition Climbing, announced today that it has awarded the 2019 USA Climbing: Collegiate National Championships to Climb Murfreesboro in Murfreesboro, Tennessee on April 26th – 27th. This new location will be Climb’s third of soon-to-be four climbing and fitness facilities in the Southern United States. The facility features more than 16,000 square feet of bouldering and rope climbing terrain. Last year, over five hundred competitors competed at Collegiate Nationals for a chance to be crowned champion in their respective category.

“We could not be more excited to be the host of the 2019 Collegiate National Championships” says Jonathan Brandt, Routesetting Director of Climb Nashville. “Climb Murfreesboro sits next door to Middle Tennessee State University and is a short drive from the hip, bustling city of Nashville, TN and only an hour away from some of the South’s best sandstone sport climbing, trad climbing, and bouldering. The climbing terrain, spectating space, and local businesses make this state-of-the-art facility an ideal venue for hosting competitive climbing events!”

“We are thrilled to bring the 2019 USA Climbing Collegiate National Championship to Climb Murfreesboro and to bring a championship event to the Southeast!” says Zachary Brinchi, Marketing & Communications Manager of USA Climbing. “Situated right next to a major university and an exciting city like Nashville, Murfreesboro is a prime location for this event. We can’t wait to welcome the competitors, spectators, friends, and family in April 2019!”
