Salt Lake City, UT – December 23, 2019

USA Climbing is excited to announce and welcome Rebecca Ingraham as the new Education Manager. Ingraham will work closely with the Chief Executive Officer, VP of Sport, and existing USA Climbing Committees to implement educational and certification programs as well as identifying programs to increase women's representation within the organization.

"As USA Climbing continues to grow and with our debut in the Olympic Games on the horizon, we are very excited to have Rebecca come on board as our Education Manager," said Marc Norman, USA Climbing CEO. "In addition to implementing educational curriculum across all aspects of the sport, Rebecca will also focus on improving representation by women in routesetting, coaching, judging, and belaying for our Youth, Collegiate, Adult, and Paraclimbing members."

Ingraham joins USA Climbing from the U.S. Center for SafeSport, where she worked closely with other National Governing Bodies and High-Performance Management Organizations recognized by the United States Olympic & Paralympic Committee.

"I would like to thank Marc Norman and everyone at USA Climbing for this opportunity. I am excited to join the team and help build an education program designed specifically for the climbing community. I look forward to being a part of the organization's growth as we head into 2020 and beyond."
